MOMENTS

In the afternoon of time
As childhood passes by
And memories are stored
The peaceful hours are enjoyed
Mellowed by childhood dreams—
A ring, a friend, a book, a toy trivial yet fond with joy
since memory holds a seat in the sands of time
I behold the mystic chords of memories stirring bright
Since now at length my fate I know
In the afternoon of time.

The peaceful hours once enjoyed
With Tin Man, Lion, and Scarecrow—
With scotch tape, scissors, straw, and lights—
All gone, all missed
Yet, how sweet that memory of time!

The solitude, tests, and games
Record hope of by gone days
The words of love then spoken,
Now broken
The smiles, the tears
The eyes that shone
now dimmed
Have left an aching void
In the afternoon of time.

In the world of memories I place my fancy free
Enjoy, remember all that was and is to be in
A night of memories.

In Memoriam

Far came I to the mountain to gaze upon the sea waves stilled.
Far came I to have my soul's desires stop, unbraid.
Far indeed!
Now, unafraid, I've merged with all the seas and sand.
Now, all draped in yellow, here I stand,
dried my tears, caressing Life
remembering the many miles, The many faces—remembering that once
I was in a hurry and Life just seemed to fade
memories never lingered moments never stayed.
Life never seemed very precious
It just never seemed until that final hour
when tall I walked between Life's gate and entered this, my Valley.
Now but far chant I the hymn of life.
Now but far have I the way of life.

Yearbook staff attempts to recapture year

Editor-in-chief Dawn Barnhart successfully launched the '75 Heiskelite.

Beth Myers, Jr. ass't. learned the ins and outs of the job.

Patrons Manager K. Brandenburg and Layout Editor D. Pennissi.

Mounting the rock of sportsmanship are Carl Kline and Joanne Kaldy.

Picture editors S. Patterson, O. Eisenburg pose for their own shot.

J. Wagner, business editor and J. Beard, sales manager take it easy.

Yearbook staff publish memorable yearbook

The Heiskelite staff took on the never ending task of putting high school memories into book form again this year. Headed by Dawn Barnhart the staff completed several deadlines over the course of the year. Their task was difficult, but they came through with another fine publication. The most difficult thing the yearbook undertakes in producing the book is, reproducing school events so that the students can look back in twenty years and see things as though they happened yesterday.

J. Palkovitz writes most of the copy for the yearbook.

Faithful Heiskelite representatives push the sale of yearbooks in homeroom.

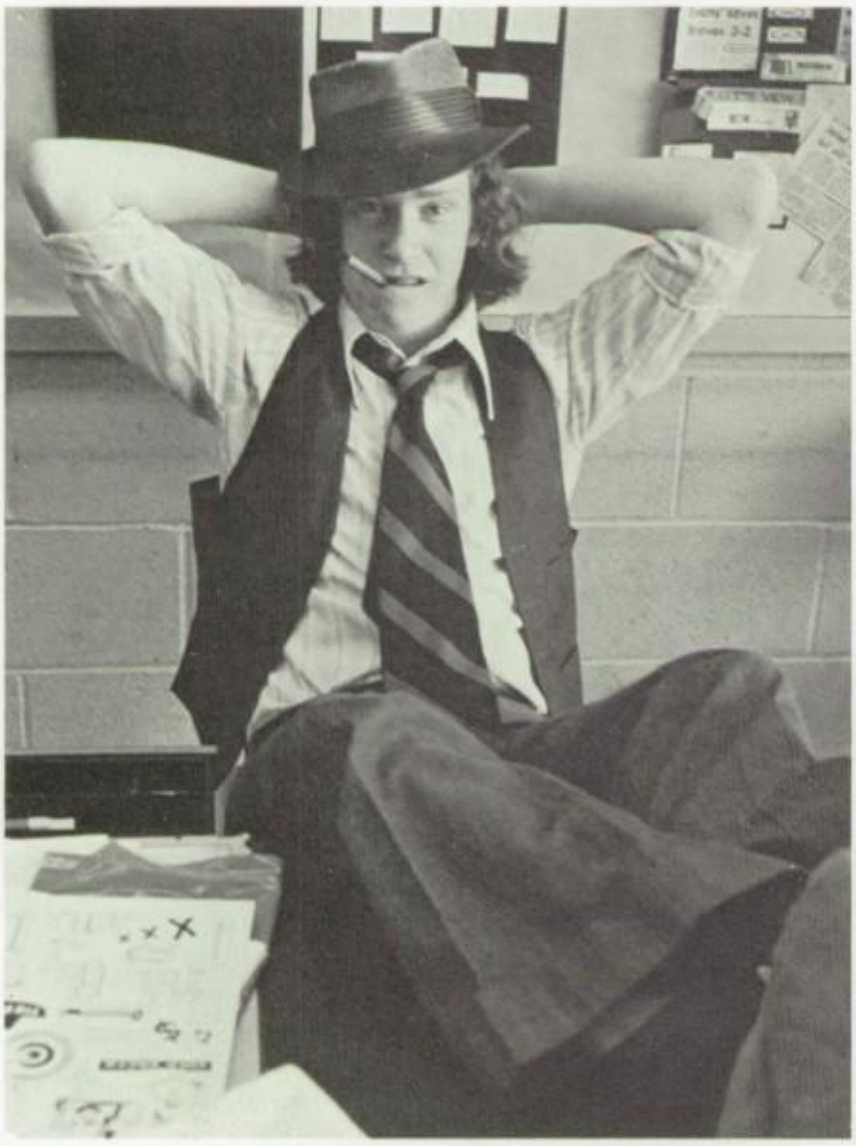
H.W.N.W. staff brings the school to life

Another outstanding feature of our school's individuality is expressed in black and white, the Hoo-Wair-N-Wat. Bob Egan, Editor-in-Chief, led his staff to a successful year consisting of ten issues. Two years of Journalism paid off as the monthly accounts of school activities went above and beyond the standards of previous years. This year the staff, under the direction of advisor Barbara Taylor, projects more student objectives and originality. Hours of work in meeting deadlines revealed an outstanding achievement in journalistic styles.

Executing Page 2 are Steph Saylor and Steve McCardell.



With Bob Egan at the helm the NWNW met deadlines successfully.

Mrs. B. Taylor, Advisor, oversaw the statutes of good journalism.

Sports Editors Carl Kline and Bill Breichner.

Peggy Slasman and JoAnne Kaldy command the Feature page.

Joe Mullineaux, Dawn Barnhart and Diane Pennessi produce artwork.

Bob Spence and Amy Snyder report all school news to page one.

Yvonne Clutz, Susan Maye and Bernice Welch take care of business.

Sue Patterson and Jamey Snyder report on various school functions.

Distinguished students join scholastic clubs

Members of the Honor Club and National Honor Society, inducted during the annual spring ceremony, received well-earned and deserved recognition for their scholastic accomplishments. While the larger honor club remained inactive, diligent and persevering Honor Society members tutored students in a variety of subjects, while raising money to conduct next year's ceremony.

President M. Baltz and Secretary K. Schoeck lead Honor Club.

Eighteen intelligent students band together to form Honor Society.

Each year the Honor Club grows in number as students tend to progress scholastically.

Choruses combine voices harmoniously

Cultured and talented voices rose in unity of song as the four major choruses, the Freshman, General, A Capella and Madrigals sang their way into the hearts of many during Christmas and Spring concerts. Through the diligent and praise-worthy efforts of Mr. William Makell and the officers of the assorted choruses, many goals were reached and much accomplished, including a popular and monetarily successful talent show.

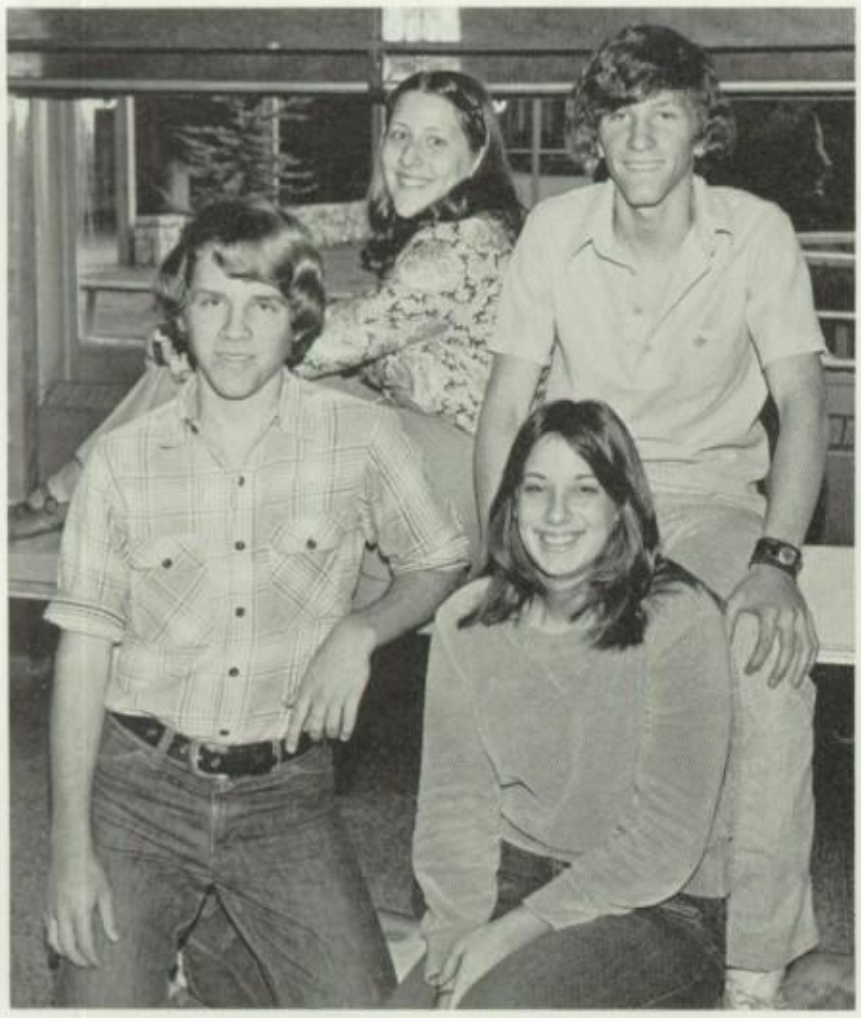
The Freshmen Chorus looks forward to three more years of singing success.

Members of the General Chorus combine their singing abilities to entertain audiences throughout the year.

The unique style of the Madrigals was displayed at various concerts during the year.

The A Capella Chorus after months of hard practice, smiles over a job well done.

The Orchestra performs many works of art



Officers: H. Woodward, B. Myers, E. Beachley, M. Kauffman.

The Hub Orchestra worked hard to polish their tone and expand their repertoire under the direction of Mr. Marvin Hurley and presidential leadership of Eddie Beachley. The year was highlighted when the Orchestra sponsored a performance of the Maryland Ballet Company. The Satin Strings, a select group of Orchestra participated in the District Festival and offered Christmas and Spring concerts.

North High Band attains fame for school

The band offered a diversified program which delighted listeners of all musical tastes, from classical to pops. Directed by Mr. Atherton, the band provided field shows at football games, Christmas, Spring, and Pops concert, as well as parade offerings. Representing North, the band participated in the annual University of Maryland Band Day. Dave Warner and Gary Hoffman ably guided the band as President and Field Director respectively.

Everyone watches in awe as the marching Hubs perform another magnificent half-time show.

Band Council officers: Lisa Baughman, Treas.; Wayne Shank, Vice Pres.; Mary Serpi, Sec.; Dave Warner, Pres.

Gary Hoffman led the band this year with expertise.

Lettermen ease the flow of school activities

Many of North's outstanding athletes, those who had been awarded a Varsity letter, united again this year to successfully provide many services such as printing sports schedules, cleaning up school stadium after games and raising money to provide future Varsity sportsmen with letters. Frank Lusby assumed the presidency of a club that gives deserved recognition to athletes of any sport, and guided it to great and lofty goals.

Mat Maids boost enthusiasm for wrestling

For the second season the Mat Maids assisted the wrestling team by keeping scores and statistics, running errands, and filming the matches. The fifteen girls, presided over by Staphanie Shanklin, also are an integral force in cheering the team to victory. Mrs. Swisher, the clubs' advisor, is the only female wrestling coach in the state. Through their enthusiasm and dedication the Mat Maids have brought attention and gave support to an often forgotten sport.

Mat Maids: B. Breza, T. Reynold, J. Dicks, C. Byers, S. Shanklin, B. Carl, A. Huskin, T. Harr, B. Ridgely, D. Calhoun, R. Alexander, C. Hart, A. Shahan, P. Arsonault.

President Steph Shanklin, Vice President Patti Arsenault, Secretary Joan Dicks, and Treasurer Betsy Carl direct Mat Maids to aid wrestlers.

Cheerleaders instill spirit in the student body

With a great spirited shout, the cheerleading squad rushed about, bouying the mighty Hub team with their cheers and chants. This enthusiastic dynamo, steered ever-upward by the steady hand of Peggy Slasman, consisted of six jubilant cheerers from each class. Buttons, pompoms, and hats were sold again, but individual initiative was really pointed up as each squad member made her own uniform to start the basketball season off with a bang.

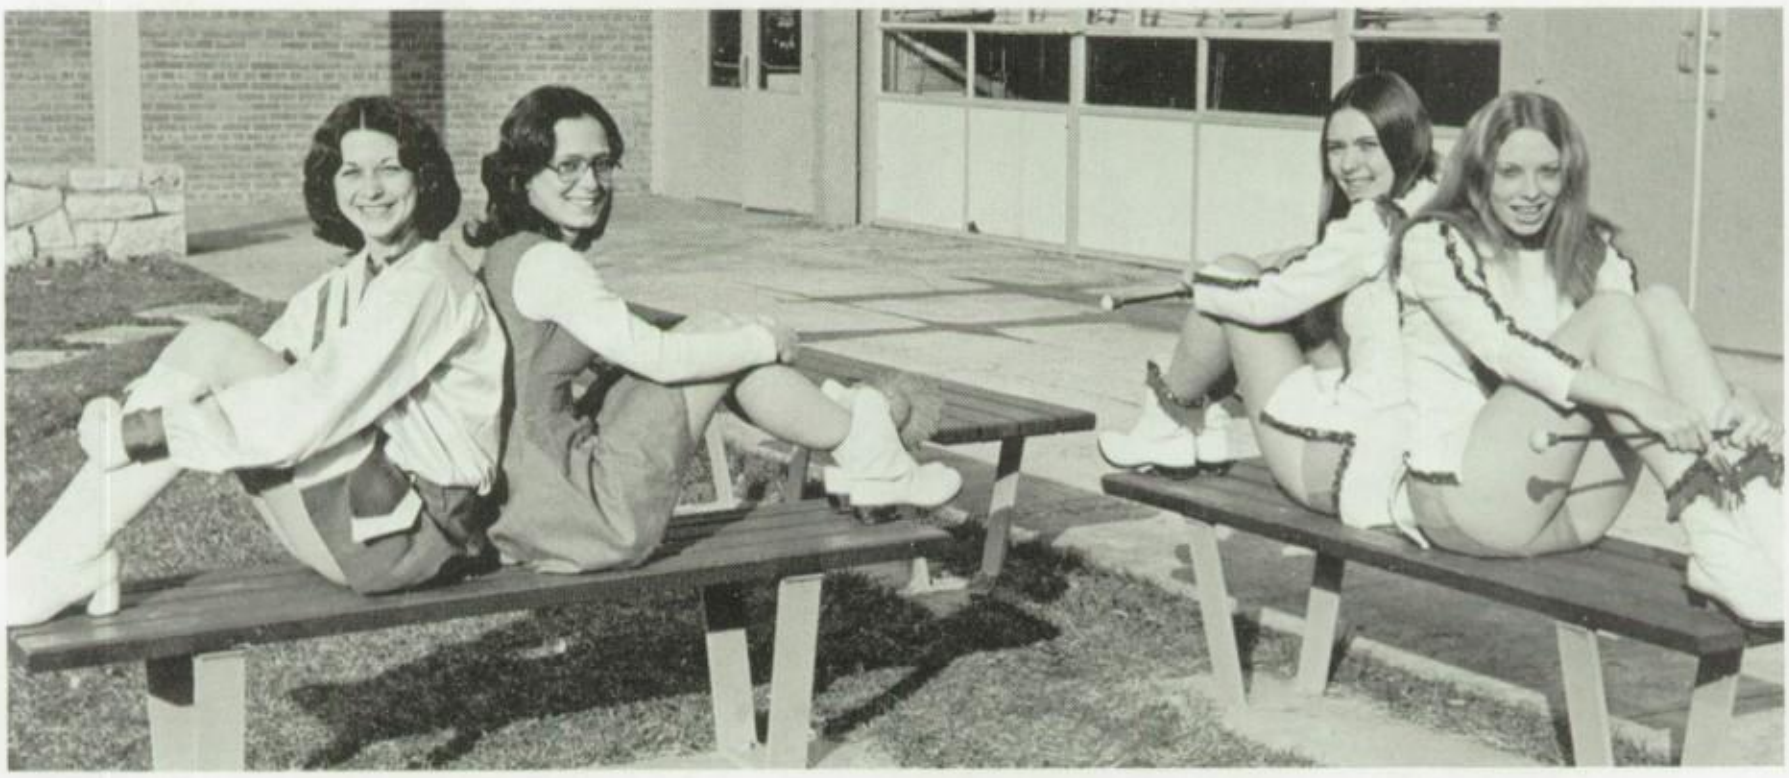
Majorettes twirl to add attraction to band

The majorettes, a group which continued to combine style with baton twirling, were an enjoyable complement to the band during half-time shows, parades and at University of Maryland's Band Day. The creative talent of co-captains Marci Mongon and Tammy Baker were combined to organize and arrange the complicated and stylish movement of the girls as the band played a wide assortment of musical pieces. Costumes and choreography were altered just enough to add new flavor to an already laudable program.

This year's majorette squad consisted of: Gail Cooper, Teresa Antill, Maureen O'Dell, Marcie Mongon, Tammy Baker, Lana Long, Tonya Brown, Nina Constahll.



Majorette Co-Captains T. Baker and M. Mongon unite with Flag and Rifle Squad captains K. Shepard and S. Burger.

Variety is added to band by Flag Squad

For the third year, North could point proudly to its flag squad and honor guard. The flag squad chose Kim Sheppard and Debbie Sullivan to be co-captains, while Sherri Lawler headed the honor guard. Three members of the flag squad were given the opportunity to go to camp in order to sharpen their skill, improve their technique, and add to their expertise. All the while, the flag squad continued to move toward being more of a show group, rather than para-military.

Rifle squad leads the band to high honors

For the second year in a row, North had a rifle squad. Shawn Burger led the squad nearer to their goal of rifle twirling perfection, as the girls stepped off routines during half-time shows. Another member of the band's entourage, along with the Flag squad and honor guard, the rifle squad tossed their guns to each other in military precision to the beat of the band's music.

The 1974-75 rifle squad drilled to perfection this year. Members include, Row 1: S. Cummins, D. Teter, S. Crowl, and N. Barnhart. Row 2: C. Bogdanski, co-captain, S. Gilbert, K. Kretzer, and captain S. Berger.

Students stress respect for nature

Again this year, S.E.A.A., Students for Environmental Awareness and Action, continued to be a very active organization. The club members realize that man must not waste his resources as if there were no tomorrow; man is only one part of a complicated eco-system. Led by president John Branch and advisor Mr. Kenneth Ray, Jr., the students participated in such adventures as a survival weekend and excursions to the seashore.

Student Council adds to success of school

The Student Government had many praiseworthy achievements this year to add to the list of its great accomplishments. Many projects, such as the bicycle rack, tennis courts, and traffic light, were brought to a glorious culmination by this year's government. Ably and wisely presided over by Darrell Pile, and advised by Mr. C. Michael Sweeney, the government had many accomplishments of its own, including a Student Rights and Responsibilities document, a Rumor Control Board, and a Memorial Area, dedicated to those students who died while in High School at North. Although there were many great, trying problems, the Student Government can be proud of its attainments.

B.S.O. strives for success in its second year

The Black Student Organization was back again this year continuing to strive toward a better understanding between all students and faculty at North High, regardless of their racial background. Various programs were conducted during Black History week, with biographical posters of various prominent blacks distributed widely over the school. Under the leadership of Vanessa Camphor, the club sought ways to further the cause of understanding black background through programs such as a Black History Course.

The "creme de la creme" of the French students again were involved with the French Club. Mary Rowland, president of the club, directed the members and oversaw an inovative fund-raiser, the car rally. The club again participated in the Mummers parade; the prize won went to enrich the organization's ideas. Under the auspices of Mr. Dennis Symons, the club had a very productive year as many members eagerly awaited a tenative journey to New York.

AFS unites students

Students in the American Field Service club at North sought through increased understanding and cultural exchanges to bridge the gaps that so often result between people of different cultures and social-economic backgrounds. Cultural exchange was highlighted when Marie Collombet, from southern France, arrived in the United States to study here for one year. It was obvious to many that Marie was profiting from her experience, as her command of English improved and she became more at ease in her new surroundings. Many, however, did not notice how they were profiting, greatly but subtly, from Marie's presence.

Kennedy and is active in A.F.S. and Youth-in-Government. She also enjoys the music of Elvis Presley and Simon and Garfunkle.

F.T.A. looks into teaching as a career

The Future Teachers of America Club provided practical insight into the teaching profession for the nation's future educators. The participating students guided parents to classrooms and divulged information on Parent Visitation Day. Many activities, especially actual classroom experience using the latest teaching techniques, were planned and carried out by president Cindy Mowen, and advisor Mrs. Keedy. Overall it was an active, and successful year.

Both the bookstore and the library would be less efficient establishments if it weren't for one dedicated group: their respective aides. The bookstore helpers contributed many early morning hours to the duty of organizing and operating a service which provides students with a convenient location to purchase needed paperback books. The library aides helped to catalog and shelve books as well as often taking attendance and charging out books to scholarly pupils. Another of their duties, no less important, was that of being a guide to students lost among the stacks.

Chess lovers seek mental stimulation

The chess club represents an elite corp of masters whose minds run along the track of checks and castling.

Under the expert guidance of Mr. Vernon Stuckey, and presided over by sophomore Brian DeLumeau, the club started its season in November. The young masters polished upon their strategy and moves through persistant practice and concentration on the board.

Campus Life goes bananas over year's activities

Providing for the mental, spiritual, emotional, and physical growth of the community's young people was the goal of Campus Life, a multi-school, county-wide organization. Under the guidance of Greg Houpt, the club worked toward these goals by conducting many worthwhile and meaningful social activities. One activity included a "fifties night". A funfilled as well as a spiritually enlightning "Banana Split Gorge" was the highlight of this year's activities. Featured was a huge fifty foot long banana split.

Juniors struggle to create romantic atmosphere

Under the watchful eye and helping hand of Mr. Symons and the leadership of Warren Cooper and Jeanne Crane, the class of 1976 devoted their time and energy to Prom '75. Members of the Prom committee, faithful through wind, rain, snow, or sleet, met on week nights and weekends to construct, paint, and pomp. All the hard work resulted in "A" cafeteria being changed into a forest by murals, pomped trees, and flowers, and the gym became a stone castle complete with a moat. May 17 was an enjoyable evening for all with music provided by "Friends of the Family."

The choosing and crowning of a queen

Rumors ran rampant over the school immediately before homecoming as to whom would be on the court. The girls who were lucky enough to be chosen by a football player were driven to School Stadium in the traditional car caravan. As touchdown after touchdown was scored by the victorious Hubs, the court did a Can Can in celebration. Before the queen was to be named, the entire court joined hands in a semi-circle of apprehensive good wishes. The euphoric atmosphere was heightened as Sue Martin was announced homecoming queen of 1974-75.

Sweethearts' king and queen begin reign

The fifteenth of February 1975 was a big day in the lives of Cindy Telemeco and Bob Bailey; it was the day of the annual Sweethearts Dance, during which Cindy and Bob were crowned Queen and King. The royal couple was chosen from a court of twenty-four, two representatives from each senior homeroom. "Flagstaff", a band from Baltimore, played Hello, it's me for the King and Queen, Lisa Ghysels and Annette Bargeil, the Student Council's co-chairpersons of the event, knew that the dance under their direction was a big success.

The juniors of last year toiled long and laborously over their Munchkinland beginning early in th previous summer. Darrell Pile and Gary Hoffman, co-chairmen for the extravaganza, worked with numerous other committee chairmen on finalizing plans and procuring supplies. When school started, work centered around two major poles Haven and P.E. Pomping, painting, sawing, papier maché-ing, and cutting all came to a tremendous climax just before Prom time. Work continued right down to the wire as industrious workers put the finishing touches on the Wizard of Oz.

May 25 leaves many memories for couples

For many, the image of "Prom" had been magnified over a period of months as work went on. When Prom finally arrived, many could hardly believe it. The euphoria began early as dinner reservations were made and corsages ordered. Couples first journeyed through Munchkinland, complete with flowers, Dorothy's house, and the magical rainbow. Proceeding down the Yellow Brick Road, the sounds of "Too Many People" greeted everyone along with the Tin Man, Cowardly Lion, Scarecrow, the Wicked Witch of the West, and of course, Toto. Before anyone realized, Prom '74 had come to an end. Although all things must come to pass, memories of the Prom and the Wizard of Oz will be cherished forever.

Senior Class officers make important decisions

After struggling for three years, Seniors sigh with relief as the final trials and tribulations come to an end. Memories of freshman fears, assemblies, dances, sophomore money boxes, bake sales, and the great prom will flow in the Senior mind forever. Their last year is now filled with calculus and numerous other headaches. However, the Senior replaces all fears with classroom antics, hallway capers, friendship, laughter, and tears of both joy and frustration. As the year comes to an end, the class of '75 travels the final road to the goal of graduation.

THE DEFICIT OF '76

The Bicentennial year may float on a tide of red ink: a $51.9 billion deficit, the largest in peacetime. If Congress spends or cuts taxes more than Ford wants, the deficit could top the record of 1943.

ENERGY This area occupies a disturbing and almost unbelievable place in the world's catalogue of unexplained mysteries. This is usually referred to as the Bermuda Triangle, where more than 100 planes and ships have literally vanished into thin air, most of them since 1945, and where more than 1,000 lives have been lost in the past twenty-six years, without a single body or even a piece of wreckage from the vanishing planes or ships having been found. Disappearances continue to occur with apparently increasing frequency, in spite of the fact that the seaways and airways are today more traveled, searches are more thorough, and records are more carefully kept.

"Serpico was a movie about a crusading cop who becomes a pariah for exposing corruption in the New York City police department. The real Frank Serpico, 38, now living in self-exile in Europe, turned up in print back home last week with a largely reflective article in New York's Village Voice. Writing from his present pad somewhere in the Netherlands, he told of visiting New York last fall and dropping in at police headquarters—where his ex-colleagues put out the unwelcome mat. "You could see the rage on their faces," wrote Serpico. "I asked one guy a question, he didn't even answer me and walked out of the office. The funny part of it was when the civilian personnel found out I was in the building, they started asking me for autographs."

Administration plans successful year

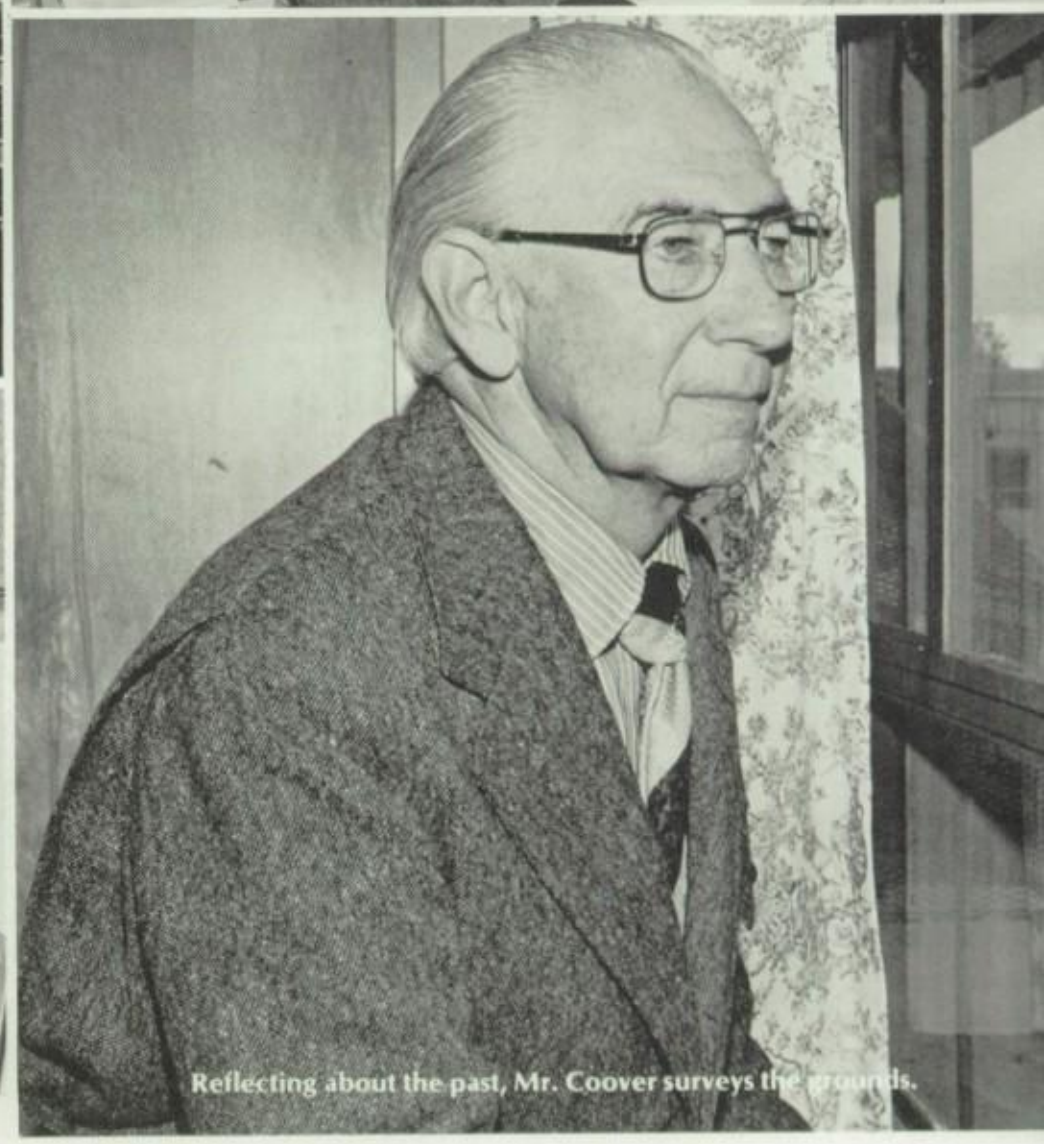
To a great majority of students, Mr. Lemmert was only the voice calmly delivering the morning announcements over the intercom, or the man that seemed to be the Hub teams biggest fan. However, Mr. Lemmert's major duty was to administer the school so that faculty, students and curriculum could function with optimum effectiveness.

Mr. Coover, often observed sedatly surveying the school, serves with Mr. Lemmert in guiding North as head disciplinarian and director of the Athletic Department.

Mr. James R. Lemmert

Mr. John Coover

Mr. Lemmert delivers morning messages to eagerly listening students.

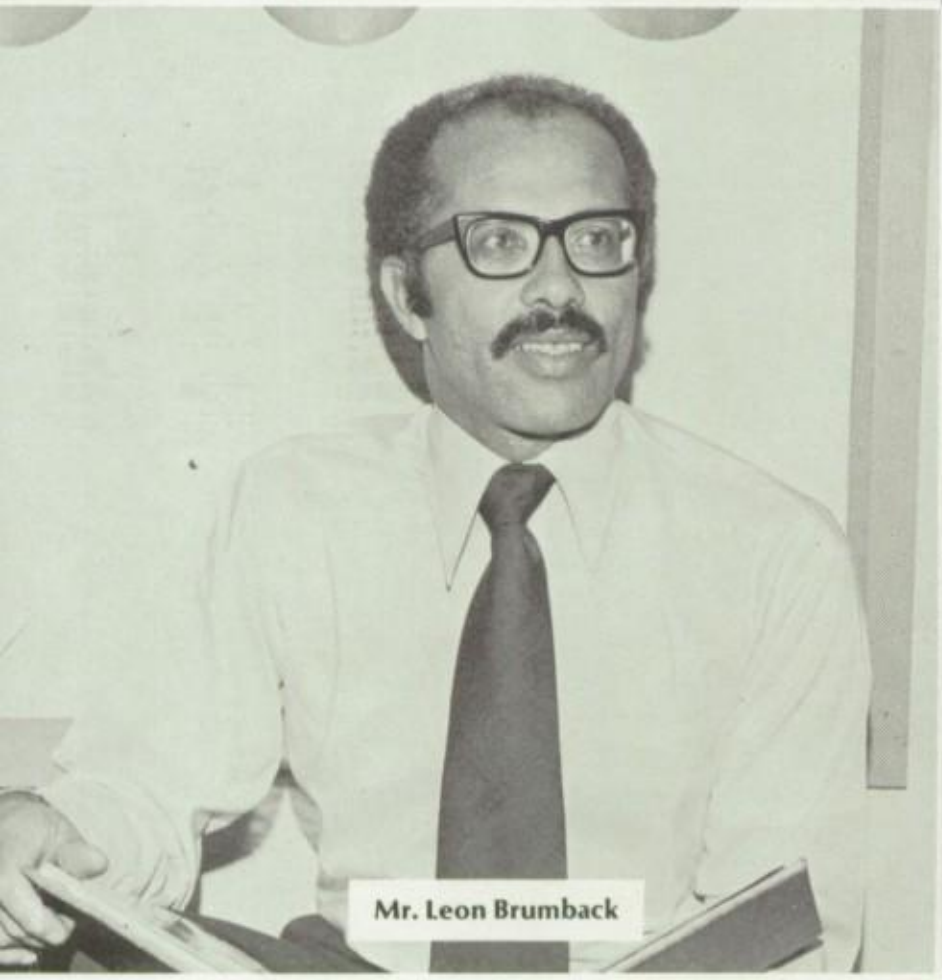


Reflecting about the past, Mr. Coover surveys the grounds.

Coordinators oversee student activities

Mr. James Conrad

The usual system of a trio of coordinators continued this year, with one major change; Mr. Conrad, formerly of the Biology department, became an Administrative Assistant to replace Mr. Downs. As in previous years, Mr. Galbraith coordinated the activities of Juniors and Seniors and Mr. Brumback handles school-wide activities. Mr. Conrad was assigned the position of Attendance and Underclassman Coordinator.



Mr. Leon Brumback

Mr. Walter Galbraith

Counselors help plan students' futures

This year the guidance complex expanded still further with over $8,500 of new materials including career and social value comic books, pamphlets, View-Deck tracks, and many fun games. College aspirants were fearlessly advised by dynamic counselors, while other vigorous advisors manned the career studies and behavior modification posts. With topnotch and essential materials pouring in and refinements of a program which has already reached a ne plus ultra, the guidance department should be a topic of enviable discussion for a long time to come.

English instructors create future novelists

English departments continued to broaden and diversify their programs. English 9-10, taught by a team, was given remodeled facilities, as well as a revamped reading program. Juniors and Seniors were again challenged by a semester-minimester program which included a wide range of optional courses such as Utopian Literature, Jazz Age and John Steinbeck. Also offered were full year courses in Speech, Advanced Composition, Drama Workshop, Journalism I & II, while independant study and self-pacing courses were again included in the curriculum.

Math teachers employ modern techniques

The Math Department staunchly tried again this year to lead bewildered students out of the dark mire of perplexion into the bright fields of comprehension. The department offered a wide range of course selections, covering all forms of mathematical endeavor from Business Math to Calculus to give every student the best possible basis for a career or a continued higher education. The Math Department is enjoying growth this year. In fact, for the first time in its history, there are now two Pre-Calculus classes.

Liberal arts teachers encourage creativity

Expression of individualism occurs in areas of art and music. Musical talent appears in the band, orchestra, and chorus. Concerts and half time shows keep both instrumental and vocal areas occupied. Money-making projects are carried out to finance trips to other areas. Art class contains a new twist this year, the two art instructors rotate classes every three weeks. In this way a student has the experience of instruction by two different people. Talent matures as the individual style forms.

Language teachers view distant horizons

North High's Foreign Languages continued this year to be a strong point of the school's curriculum. All three departmental divisions, Latin, French and Spanish, offered classes for every pupil in the school, Freshman to Senior. Two traditional clubs, relating to French and Spanish, also augmented the study of language and culture. With a majority of the Romance Languages represented, a student may enrich his life and widen his scope by studying the contemporary or ancient cultures, while mastering the languages.

Homemaking a necessary skill

The Home Economics Department intrigues both male and female. Handicrafts, foods, clothing, child care, home decoration, and parent preparation courses are included in the department. The beginner learns basic techniques; the intermediate improves his acquired talent; and the student attempts both the unique and different. With the help of both advanced qualified instructors and modern equipment, a student is at liberty to experiment with new phases of home economics.

Gym achieves new facelifting

Physical education classes of the beginning of the year were disrupted as the refurbishments of the gym were being completed. However, the delay was minimal and the Physical Education Department soon got under way with its full program. The year was divided into three week sessions during which upperclassmen could pick courses in such varied activities as ping pong, chess, self-defense, bridge, and paddle tennis. The Phys. Ed. department had a very balanced program with courses to promote both physical and mental dexterity.

Practical arts influence young minds

North Highs Practical Arts department offered a broad program to students in response to the ever increasing demand for vocational and practical training. Although the department catered to an overwhelming male student body, the courses offered presented a bulk of the elective studies offered this year, the department carried on and sharpened skills learned on the middle school level, such as wood shop, metal shop, and mechanical drawing, as well as initiating new programs at the high school level such as V.E.R.S.E., V.I.C.T., electronics and driver's education.

Secretaries & Aides help faculty

As school opened this year, both old and new secretary faces greeted the students. Behind Mr. Lemmert, Mr. Coover and the Guidance Department there stands at least one woman — his secretary. She remains the male inspiration by maintaining the typewriter and repairing the copy machines. The clerical staff encounters tensions and problems which occur in the daily routine of hectic office life.

Mrs. Pitsnogle — Service with a smile.

Our unknown soldiers

The massive and extensive job of maintaining the school, keeping it in tip-top condition, is placed upon the conscientious custodial staff. Consisting of twelve men and one woman, the department is indispensable to the school.

Trying to prepare nutritious and palatable meals for the hundreds of persons who dine in the cafeterias each day is the challenging duty placed upon the fourteen women who staff the cafeterias. Mrs. Worthington supervises the entire operation.

Row 1: Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Wolford, Mrs. Nichols. Row 2: Mrs. Palmer, Mrs. Machel, Mrs. Pitsnogle, Mrs. Worthington, Mrs. Bell.

Row 1: Mr. Hill, Mr. Knode, Mr. Mauch. Row 2: Mr. Garner, Mr. Tosten, Mr. Longnecker, Mr. Murray.

Mrs. Wolford cheerfully collects the cash.

Industrious Juniors donate time, energy

The Junior Class found it hard to keep their treasury filled this year due to the production of their prom for the Seniors. Under President Judi Chapa, the class raised money by bakesales, Tom Wat Kits, and sweaters. Concession stands at home basketball games also added to necessary funds. Advisor Mr. Dennis Symons guided the class through all problems encountered. Many activities, both in school and out, were supported by the Juniors when not working on Prom '75. Although difficult, the '76ers survived a successful year.

Mr. Symons sees Junior class through hectic prom year.

Officers: Treasurer L. Shoemaker, Secretary C. Stotler, Vice President S. Smith, President J. Chapa.

Sophomores end second successful year

Under the leadership of Debbie Storey and the advisorship of Mr. J.M. Peddicord and Mrs. Marlene Shank, sophomoric activities had a banner year. Numerous traditional activities, such as coat-checks at all home basketball games and bake sales were continued, while a myriad of new projects, such as a car wash, horror movies, and a T-shirt sale, were embarked upon. Many active and concerned members of the class worked long and hard to raise enough funds to finance next year's prom.

Mr. Peddicord advises all class activities.

Eager freshmen fill class piggy bank

The freshmen this year were welcomed to North High with "Class of 78" buttons. After many wrong turns and winding up in the wrong classrooms, the bewildered freshmen finally adjusted to their new surroundings. Class President Rick Rideout started the freshman bankroll with bake sales. With the help of their advisor, Mr. Greijack, the freshmen sold Stanley Products as their main project of the year. With this project completed, the freshmen boosted their treasury considerably.

Girls suffer first loss

The girls softball team suffered their first loss in the history of the team. The loss came when the girls played Smithsburg with a final score of 8-7. It was a very disappointing time for the girls.

The Hubbettes slate was 9-1-0 for the year and far surpassed the boys record of 5-8-0. Miss Christian had an outstanding group of girls to work with and they played to win every game they entered. Some of those players were J. Horst, J. McLucas, K. Rideout, B. Smith, J. Snyder, and D. Wagner.

Enthusiasm highlights batters' performance

Coach Johnson opened the baseball season a little differently that year, he added an assistant to his staff and ended the formation of a J.V. team. His new assistant was Mr. Fogle who played some college baseball.

Coach Johnson's most productive players were third base man J. Diseat; pitcher J. Bowen; left fielder, D. Koontz; short stop, M. Rohror; centerfielder, R. Suder; second baseman, R. Shoemaker; and first baseman, Joe Weaver.

North's tennis team scores again

M. Harrison, B. Abdullah, K. Schoeck, T. Dalton, R. Sprecker, R. Herrington, S. Diffenderfer, R. Bottenus, F. Lusby, J. Eshelman.

The netmen and women came away from the 1973-74 courts with seven wins and five losses. Coach Brumbacks' team was invaded by girls for the second time in two years. They were senior Margaret Harrison and Sophomore Kristen Schoeck.

The team practiced at Fountain Head Country Club, North Wood Swim Club and Woodland Way. They had hopes of obtaining home courts but legal action halted construction of the courts for that year. Construction of the courts then began.

Practice pays off at meets and the exercise paid off for those on the team, building them physically and mentally. The marine physical fitness team, coached by Gary Knepper, worked on such skills as; pull-ups, sit-ups, push-ups, 600 yard run and the broad jump. Early morning practices and much hard work, shaped the bulk of the team's activities throughout the year.

Golfers putt their way through season

The linksmen putted their way to a 5-6-1 record winning against Westminster once, Martinsburg and South twice. They also tied with Thomas Johnson.

Coach Crabtree led his club of golfers to a slightly below average season. The linksmen played their home matches at Beaver Creek Country Club and Fountain Head Co ntry Club.

Outstanding golfers were Brian Griffith, Jon Ingram, Nancy Strine, Mary Baltz and Bill Young.

J.V.'s have even slate

Under the direction of Coach Zonis the J.V. track team had a 3-3-0 record. Coach Zonis managed track for the first time here at North and led his team through a mediocre season. The J.V. track team was formed to give underclassmen a chance to learn the basic fundamentals of a few of the field events they were interested in. When the J.V. players reach Varsity they will be able to devote all their time to practice.

Oustanding J.V.'s for the '73-74 year were Larry Brown, Charles Doleman, Jeff Reedy and Tim Spickler.

Tracksters worked hard

The Varsity track team had a fair season placing second in the C.V.A.L. and District meets, third place in the Tri-State and the Blue Ridge Relays.

Outstanding runners were J.T. Blake, Bob Baily, Clarence Bowman, John Patterson, and Scott Shanklin. Noticeable jumpers included Pete Breza, Corky Smith and Jim Vocke. North met with a disappointing moment when they were defeated by South. The State meet was filled with frustration, too, since they only had four men running and placed thirtieth.

Soccer team sparks enthusiasm at North

Socker entered North High for the first time as a varsity sport. Enthusiasm was high for this new sport and a large number of people became involved. The teams season was long and hard, since they were young and inexperienced. The Hubs were held scoreless in four of their ten games. They ended their first season with a 1-7-2 record. North's only victory was against Thomas Johnson with a score of 5-1. Coach Roulette was very surprised at the performance of his team. P. Breza, R. Narron, R. Uriarte, and H. Woodward were outstanding.

Frosh gridders push for good season

The Freshmen ended their first football season at North with a 4-3-0 record. They lost to North Martinsburg, Thomas Johnson, and Westminster and were held scoreless twice while they fought to no avail. Coached by Harry Fogle and Ned Weirch the newcomers to the football program were drilled for long hours on offensive and defensive plays. The frosh football strategy remained simple for the year because there was a lack of classroom and practice time. Coach Weirich and Fogle tried their best to push the Frosh thru a mediocre season.

Junior Varsity prepare to join Varsity Squad

The J.V. football team suffered a poor season with a 2-4-2 record. Mr. Martin returned from a head coaching job at Shepherd College to help Mr. Hawkins whip the J.V.'s into shape for the oncoming season. They worked on basic skills such as blocking and tackling, they also ran drills which tuned their muscles to the game of football. All during the practice sessions the coaches applied laws of physics to show the boys that even though they didn't have size they could move a larger person easily.

Size and experience were two of the components that North's football team lacked when their 74-75 season opened. Coach Galbraith worked his players hard on and off the field to prepare them for the season. Drilling them for hours on the terf he helped them perfect their basic offense and defensive plays. The coaching staff then put their skills to the test when they opened their pre-season with games against Boonsboro and Jefferson.

Girls produce a 13-3 record

The Hubettes finished their season with a 13-3 record, which has been the most losses they have suffered in three years. The three losses came from South High twice and Williamsport once. Coached by Diana Christian the girls played with no set offense, which from the looks of their record worked very well. Good performances were turned in by Seniors: Becky Smith, Jamie Snyder and Donna Wagner; Juniors: Penny Johnson, Kim Rideout, Mickey Staymates and JoEllen Taylor.

A fine season is turned in by the Frosh

For their first year here at North, the Frosh had a rather productive season. Taught the basic fundamentals of basketball by Coach Bob Beard, the Hubs finished their 15 game schedule 13-2. The Frosh had amazing height and speed for a team that played together for the first time this year. Mr. Beard also had a hand in helping the Frosh; he disciplined them so that they could play as a team. Outstanding players were Victor Fowlkes, Dewight Lewis and Steve Magaha.

JVs finish first in the Tri-State League

The JV's produced a fine 18-2 record, losing only to South Carroll and Waynesboro. Over all, the JV's had an unstoppable offense which was commanded by Kenny Keyes. Helping Keyes lead the team was Tim Spickler who was the high scorer at the season's end. The team's strong point this year was height; the average height on the front line was 6'2".

Boys varsity accumulate a 16-4 record

The varsity basketball squad, coached by Jim Brown, won its way to a first place seat in the Tri-State League. They compiled a 16-4 record, losing once to Martinsburg, South Carroll and twice to Thomas Johnson. Overall, the team was small but very fast. Ted Schoeck, a sophomore, joined the varsity at the season's beginning and proved himself a real asset to the team. Other outstanding players were seniors: Eddie Brooks, Jerry Harris, Steve McCardell and Aggie Mose; juniors: Dave Ghysels, and Brett Wollaston.

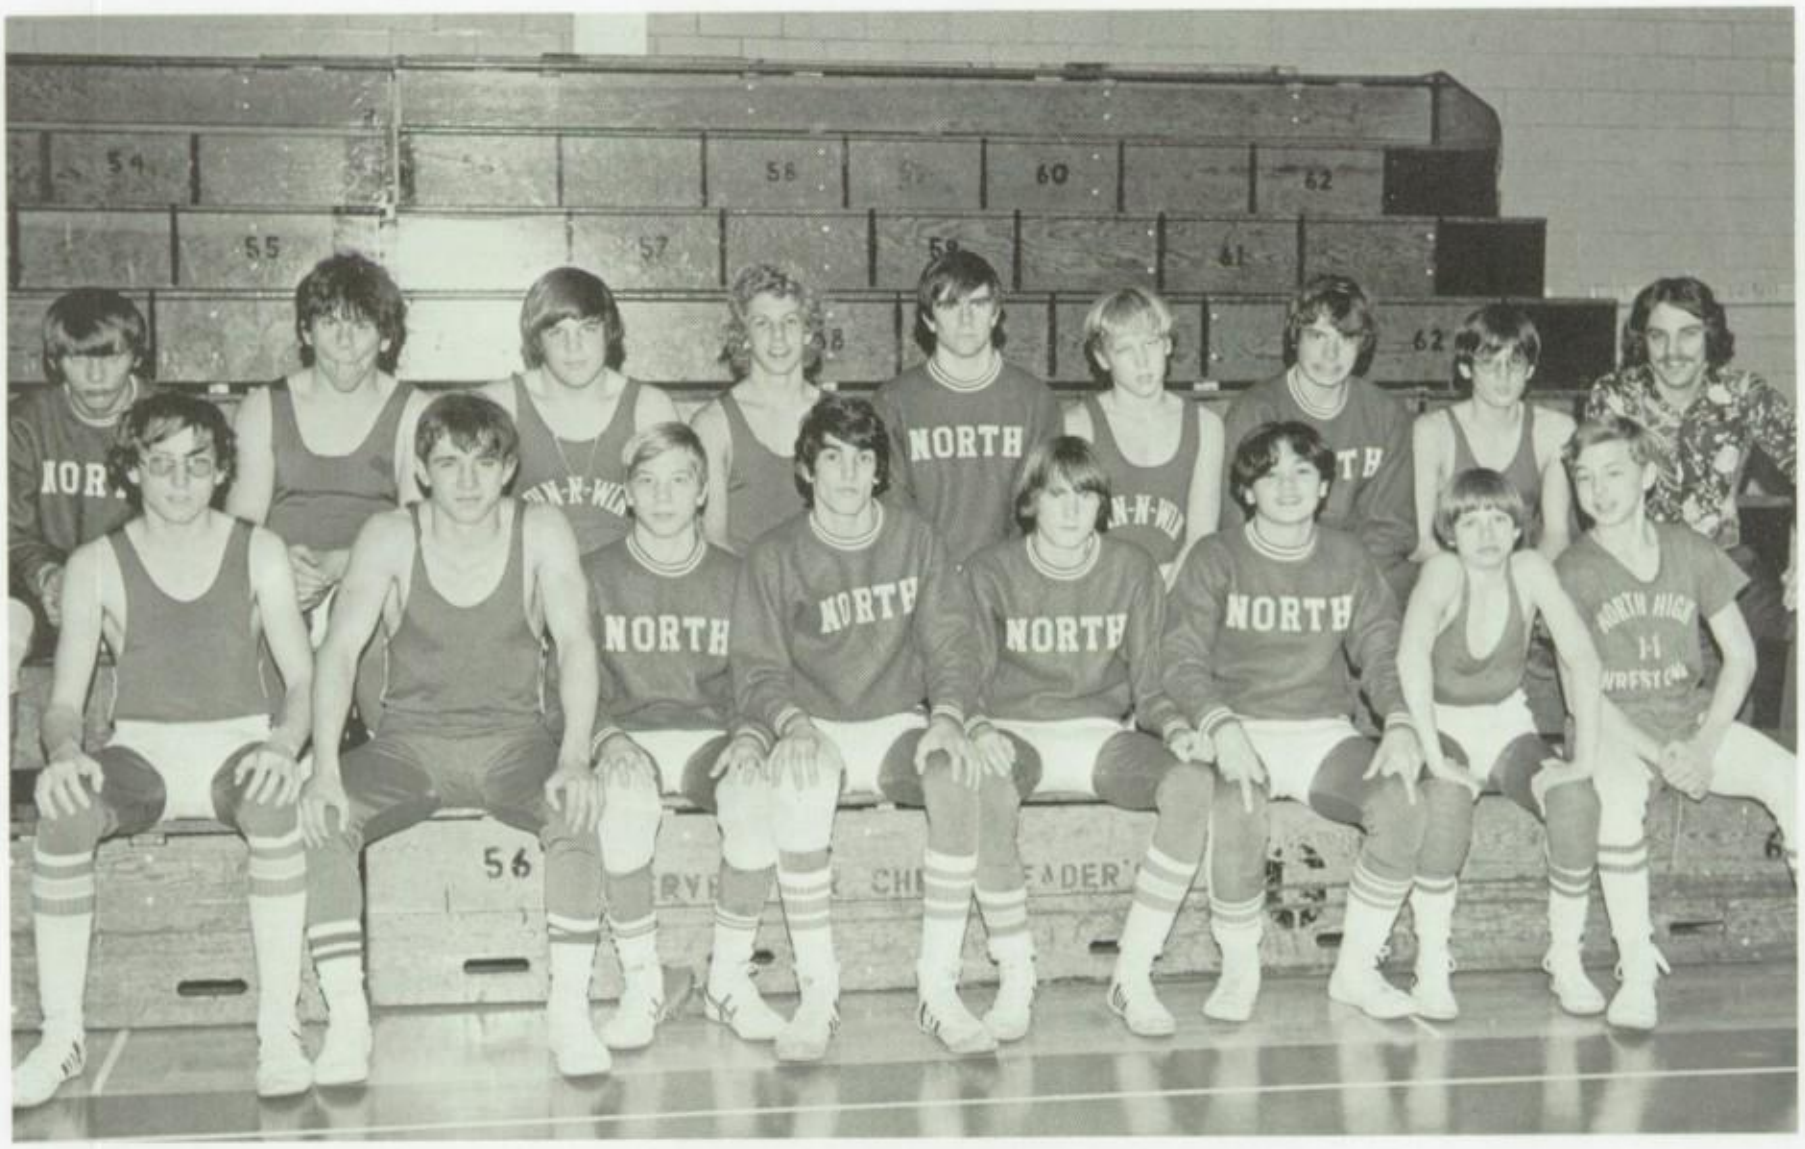
The JV wrestlers build up their skills

The J.V. wresting program takes young men and turns them into wrestlers. Their work-outs consist of mat drills, calisthenics and a lot of hard work. The head of this program was Jack Ebersole, who returned to North High this year to teach physical science. Mr. Ebersole's job is to turn these green kids into men so they can benefit the wrestling program. He teaches them the basic fundamentals of one of the most physically demanding sports around.

Chris Datillio attempts to out maneuver his opponent.



J.V.'s faced a future of muscular tests.

Varsity wrestlers better last years record

The Varsity Wrestling program took on several new looks this year. First of all they received a new head and j.v. coaches, Harry Fogle and Jack Ebersole. The wrestlers received more moral support from a larger fleet of Mat Maids, who performed many tasks for the squad. Also they wrestled in new uniforms, which were used by the wrestlers for half of last year's season. The group as a team bettered their season record to 6-5.

Vo-Tech teaches students valuable skills

The Career program offers practical training in vocational occupations at the Career Studies Center. The students, juniors and seniors, attend classes for two weeks at Vo-Tech. Then return to North High for two weeks of business mathematics and English. With such occupational training programs as auto body, commercial art, drafting, electronics and forestry, the students at Vo-Tech have a good basis for post-high school career work.

To Superman, Lois Lane, Geratol Lady & Scoop — no I don't keep my hamster in the bathroom and I don't eat Peeps. Peeps.
Lewis, to the one I'll always love no matter what, Love Karen.
This is a great yearbook, put together by a bunch of professional clowns. But I love them all, Carl "Superman" Kline.
It's been a long year — Scoop, Lois Lane, Peep, Geritol Lady, and Superman.
Rick — our two years together have passed so quickly yet have been so beautiful. Let our years together be happy and long.
To my Ricky — Thanks for all your love in this hectic year — Jannie
To my Baby, I'll love you always. Hang loose, stay cool and remember, "the sky's the limit." Love, Pam
To Cindy from Charlie: I'll love you always
To the O.C.B.P.'s — Always stay JET, and watch out for Mrs. Beasley, Faith, and Calvert Hall! Love, Jeep Daddy
Nice try Bennie and Frank! With a little practice you could be pretty good. Brooks Shahan and Mike Rhodes

MOMENTS

Moments of a Year
In the looking glass of moments apparitions gently reign with each passing gesture,
with each gentle rain.
First the sultry vision
paragon so fair
capturing the masses
in the gentle air.
Then the phantoms of delight
near the fountain shout,
"Fancy free in snow or rain
we are upward bound."
To the right a silhouette
a form so fair
dressed against the looking glass mingles with the air.
Slowly panning to the left the camera eye beholds gazing figures gently pressed round the iron stairs.
Now the moments of a year
printed, penned, and molded rest among the stack of books
'till that moment
when the magic looking glass
once again will open all the long, lost memories
of that year of moments.
Miss Ingrid Lachotta

Thank You

Thanks to:

Miss Lachotta — for her poetic ideas.

Mrs. Taylor — for letting us work on deadlines during newspaper staff time.

The Myerlys and Shauna — for taking pictures at the last minute in the day and getting them back the next day.

Mr. Lemmert — for the two electric typewriters.

Mr. Rowe — for the typewriter with the broken period.

Mrs. Williams — for her quick page checking.

Our parents — for keeping our dinners warm.

Hoo-Wair-N-Wat Staff — for the use of the drafting table and typewriter.

Custodians — for always letting us in on weekends and removing our trash.

Mr. Weihl — for tolerating the 200 falling cans.

Mr. Allen — for giving us the extra time we needed on deadlines.

Patrons' Staff — for selling patrons in pre-depression times.

Joe — for the forgotten Vo-Tech pictures.

Various victims — for overlooking our criminal escapades.

People at Hardees and Burger Chef — for tolerating our dinnertime antics.

Frank and the Cranks — for "Barbara Ann" and other things.

Guidance Office — for helping to identify our pictures.

Hall monitors — for allowing us to roam freely.

Helpers — for coming up with a bunch of hunky-dory captions.

Representatives — for selling our yearbooks.

Main Office — for running off our mimeographed materials, answering our questions, loaning us their facilities and being patient.

Mr. Kinsley — for advising us and checking pages.
